Hey (b) (6)

When you get the chance, would you please give (b) (6) a call? He has information about CBP issues at Logan. His number: (b) (6)

Thanks, (b) (6)

Thanks (b) (6) yes I believe I have met (b) (6) And I think my colleague (b) (6) has met him as well. Either (b) (6) or I will give him a call next week.

And I've been in touch with (b) (6) who has given me a number of Pakistani cases. These travelers faced significant delays, but were not subject to religious questioning.

I mentioned the issue briefly during a Bridges call (but did not mention the exact nature of the project because others were on the line) and asked (b) (6) to please pass on stories of travelers who had been subject to religious questioning.

I totally agree with you and Mr. (b) (6) that while Ted deserves much credit for the youth initiatives, and I can commend Bridges for really opening up communication, CBP in Boston does have a bad reputation of being a difficult POE. According to my colleague (b) (6) many in the Somali community prefer to avoid Logan altogether and apparently much prefer to fly into JFK. When Margo became aware of this, she asked us to collect as much info as possible for our compliance team, to try and sort out what's happening and why. If you wouldn't mind, please keep these details under wraps...

If you could per chance get me the cases you said (b) (6) has collected (even anonymously) that would really be helpful, especially if they concern religious questioning.

Thank you so much for the cases you've already provided and for your input. I really am hoping that some positive change can come out of this - we'll see...

(b) (6) I have permission from one man, (b) (6) to give you his name and phone number. He has been held up for hours at Logan but has not been asked questions about what tribe he belongs to or who...
