How could the United States, [redacted] continued, claim to be the land of the free, where everyone could speak freely and practice their religion freely when the detainee's religious beliefs were violated in Camp Delta.

[redacted] stated that if the searches continued, blood would run in the cells throughout the camp. All brothers, [redacted] stated, would violently oppose any attempt to conduct the searches. All camp detainees, [redacted] stated, would begin this opposition over the next couple of weeks.

In his view, the searches were meant to anger the detainees so that they would resist and give the camp guards a reason to execute them like they had executed a brother earlier.

b6 -3,4

Attempts to have [redacted] identify specifically what he and his brothers were opposed to met with negative results.

[redacted] subsequently stated that he would not, in hundreds of years, ever cooperate or answer any questions.

b7F -1

An investigative recess was called. The interview team left the room and observed [redacted] from a remote location.
