[redacted] stated he is tired and had recently showered which is why his hair was wet. He discussed his polygraph results of a month ago in which he was deceptive and stated the machine and method was in error as it had misread one of the questions regarding his receiving any training while in Afghanistan. He again stated that he had not received any training. Testing procedures were discussed in general terms although [redacted] continued to state the machine and method of testing was in error.			b6 -3,4

He has not sent or received any mail for a long time and his last interview was conducted approximately two weeks ago.
[redacted] was introduced to a new interrogator who requested they discuss some of the items in the file as there were questions needing clarification. [redacted] indicated an unwillingness to discuss any topic previously addressed, stating everything is in the file and that he is very tired of being misled by interrogators who never offer the detainees any benefit for their assistance. He was instructed again of the various levels of Camps, those privileges each camp has to offer, as well as the disciplinary levels within the camps, and other items such as books. [redacted] did not feel these rewards were enough incentive to warrant his continued assistance aside from any new material being discussed.			b6 -3,4

A question was asked concerning a previous report of his providing explosives while in Afghanistan. He asked if the question was an attempt by the interrogators to deceive him and use the information in a court of law. After being advised it was not a trick question he denied any accountability for ever having involvement in explosives in Afghanistan. [redacted] complained of losing his memory and being subjected to mental torture far greater than what he would experience if [redacted] if arrested in those countries for the same reason.			b6 -3,4

[redacted] made one request of having another [redacted] placed in an adjacent cell so he would be able to speak with someone from his own country. The interrogators stated they would attempt to arrange this and that if this was accomplished he would be expected to provide additional answers to questions.			b6 -3,4
