

as a matter of religious conviction, that it would be sinful and immoral for it intentionally to participate in, pay for, facilitate, enable, or otherwise support access to abortion, which destroys human life. It holds that one of the prohibitions of the Ten Commandments (“thou shalt not murder”) precludes it from facilitating, assisting in, or enabling the use of drugs that can and do destroy very young human beings in the womb.

3. LC does not qualify for the extraordinarily narrow religious exemption from the regulations. That exemption protects only “churches, their integrated auxiliaries, and conventions or associations or churches” and “the exclusively religious activities of any religious order.”

4. For purely secular reasons, the government has elected not to impose the challenged regulations upon thousands of other organizations. Employers with “grandfathered” plans, small employers, and favored others are exempt from these rules.

5. Defendants have offered entities like LC a so-called “accommodation” of its religious beliefs and practices. However, the alleged accommodation fails. It still conscripts LC into the government’s scheme, forcing LC to obtain an insurer or third-party claims administrator and submit a form that specifically causes that insurer or third-party administrator to arrange payment for the objectionable drugs, so that such coverage will apply to LC’s own employees as a direct consequence of their employment with the College and of their participation in the health insurance benefits the College provides them.

6. Under the supposed accommodation, Defendants continue to treat entities like the College as a second-class religious organization, not entitled to the same religious freedom rights as substantially similar entities that qualify for the exemption. Defendants’ rationale for entirely exempting churches and integrated auxiliaries from the regulations – their employees are likely to share their religious convictions – applies equally to the College. Yet, Defendants refuse to exempt it, offering only a flimsy, superficial, and utterly semantic “accommodation” that falls woefully short of addressing and resolving the substance of its concerns.

7. If the College follows its religious convictions and declines to participate in the government’s scheme, it will face, among other injuries, enormous fines that will cripple its operations.

8. By unconscionably placing the College in this untenable position, Defendants have violated the Religious Freedom Restoration Act; the Free Exercise, Establishment and Free Speech Clauses of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution; the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment; and the Administrative Procedure Act.

9. Plaintiff therefore respectfully requests that this Court vindicate its rights through declaratory and permanent injunction relief, among other remedies.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

I. Louisiana College's Religious Beliefs and Provision of Educational Services in General

20. Established in 1906, the mission of LC is to provide liberal arts, professional, and graduate programs characterized by dedication to academic excellence for the glory of God.

21. Faith is central to the mission and identity of LC. LC states its mission, as follows: "The mission of Louisiana College is to provide liberal arts, professional, and graduate programs characterized by devotion to the preeminence of the Lord Jesus, allegiance to the authority of the Holy Scriptures, dedication to academic excellence for the glory of God, and commitment to change the world for Christ by the power of the Holy Spirit."

22. Consistent with its mission, LC works to manifest its Christian faith in all aspects of its administration.

23. LC adheres to, as its doctrinal statement, the Baptist Faith and Message 2000 of the Southern Baptist Convention.

24. LC has more than 1,350 graduate and undergraduate students.

25. LC has approximately 180 full-time and 80 part-time employees.

II. The Religious Beliefs of Louisiana College Regarding Abortion

26. LC's religious beliefs include traditional Christian teachings on the sanctity of life. The College's doctrinal statement states, "We should speak on behalf of the unborn and contend for the sanctity of all human life from conception to natural death."

27. LC is affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention which has passed Resolutions from as early as 1984 condemning the use of the abortion drug RU-486 as a violation of its sincerely held religious beliefs and urging SBC members to oppose the usage and proliferation of RU-486.

28. LC has a sincere religious objection to providing or facilitating coverage for Plan B because it believes the drug would prevent a human embryo, which it believes is a human being from the moment of conception/fertilization (including before it implants in the uterus), from implanting in the wall of the uterus, causing the death of the embryo.

29. LC has a sincere religious objection to providing or facilitating coverage for ella because it believes the drug would either prevent a human embryo from implanting in the uterine wall, or could cause the death of a recently implanted embryo.

30. LC has a sincere religious objection to providing or facilitating coverage for counseling regarding the use of abortifacients like ella and Plan B.

31. LC believes and teaches that abortion, or methods that harm an embryo from the moment of conception/fertilization, ends a human life and is a sin.

III. Louisiana College's Group Health Insurance Plans

32. To fulfill its religious commitments and duties in the Christ-centered educational context, the College promotes the spiritual and physical well-being and health of its employees. This includes the provision of generous health insurance to employees and their dependents.

33. Consistent with its religious commitments, LC has ensured that its insurance policies do not cover drugs, devices, services or procedures contrary to its faith.

34. In particular, its insurance plans do not cover abortion.

35. As part of that same commitment, LC has ensured that its insurance policies do not cover drugs, devices, services or procedures that it believes may cause the death of an early human embryo, such as Plan B or ella.

36. LC cannot provide health care insurance covering abortion, abortifacient or embryo-endangering methods, or related education and counseling without violating its deeply held religious beliefs and its Christian witness.

37. While excluding abortifacients like ella and Plan B, LC's employee health plan does cover contraceptives that prevent ovulation.

38. The plan year for LC's insurance begins on January 1 of each year. 123 employees participate in the health plan LC provides. 129 of their dependents also participate.

39. LC's employee health plan does not possess "grandfathered" status. After March 23, 2010, it has made substantial changes to its health plan, including increasing the amount of coinsurance, deductibles, or co-pays paid by employees, eliminating coverage for certain conditions, and the overall limit on dollar value of benefits.

40. Moreover, LC's insurance carrier has elected not to have its plans grandfathered in order to allow more flexibility in plan design, cost sharing, and premium equality.

IV. The ACA and Defendants' Mandate Thereunder

41. In March 2010, Congress passed, and President Obama signed, the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Pub. L. No. 111-148 (March 23, 2010), and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act, Pub. L. No. 11-152 (March 30, 2010), together known as the "Affordable Care Act" (ACA).

42. The ACA regulates the national health insurance market by directly regulating "group health plans" and "health insurance issuers."

43. One ACA provision requires that any "group health plan" or "health insurance issuer offering group or individual health insurance coverage" provide coverage for certain preventive care services. 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-13(a).

44. These services include screenings, medications, and counseling given an “A” or “B” rating by the United States Preventive Services Task Force; immunizations recommended by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; and “preventive care and screenings” specific to infants, children, adolescents, and women that are subsequently “provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the Health Resources and Services Administration,” an HHS sub-agency. 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-13(a)(1)-(4).

45. These services must be covered without “any cost sharing.” 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-13(a).

The Interim Final Rule

46. On July 19, 2010, HHS published an interim final rule regarding the ACA’s requirement that certain preventive services be covered without cost sharing. 75 Fed. Reg. 41726, 41728 (2010).

47. HHS issued the Interim Final Rule without a prior notice of rulemaking or opportunity for public comment. Defendants determined for themselves that “it would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest to delay putting the provisions . . . in place until a full public notice and comment process was completed.” 75 Fed. Reg. at 41730.

48. Although Defendants suggested in the Interim Final Rule that they would solicit public comments after implementation, they stressed that “provisions of the Affordable Care Act protect significant rights” and therefore it was expedient that “participants, beneficiaries, insureds, plan sponsors, and issuers have certainty about their rights and responsibilities.” Id.

49. Defendants stated they would later “provide the public with an opportunity for comment, but without delaying the effective date of the regulations,” demonstrating their intent to impose the regulations regardless of the legal flaws or general opposition that might be manifest in public comments. Id.

50. In addition to reiterating the ACA's preventive services coverage requirements, the Interim Final Rule provided further guidance concerning the Act's restriction on cost sharing.

51. The Interim Final Rule makes clear that "cost sharing" refers to "out-of-pocket" expenses for plan participants and beneficiaries. 75 Fed. Reg. at 41730.

52. The Interim Final Rule acknowledges that, without cost sharing, expenses "previously paid out-of-pocket" would "now be covered by group health plans and issuers" and that those expenses would, in turn, result in "higher average premiums for all enrollees." Id.; see also id. at 41737 ("Such a transfer of costs could be expected to lead to an increase in premiums.")

53. In other words, the prohibition on cost-sharing was simply a way "to distribute the cost of preventive services more equitably across the broad insured population." 75 Fed. Reg. at 41730.

54. After the Interim Final Rule was issued, numerous commenters warned against the potential conscience implications of requiring religious individuals and organizations to include certain kinds of services—specifically contraception, sterilization, and abortion services—in their health care plans.

55. HHS directed a private health policy organization, the Institute of Medicine (IOM), to make recommendations regarding which drugs, procedures, and services all health plans should cover as preventive care for women.

56. In developing its guidelines, IOM invited a select number of groups to make presentations on the preventive care that should be included in health plans by force of law.

These were the Guttmacher Institute, the American Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG), John Santelli, the National Women's Law Center, National Women's Health Network, Planned Parenthood Federation of America, and Sara Rosenbaum.

57. No religious groups or other groups that opposed government-mandated coverage of contraception, sterilization, abortion, and related education and counseling were among the invited presenters.

58. On July 19, 2011, the IOM published its preventive care guidelines for women, including a recommendation that preventive services include “[a]ll Food and Drug Administration approved contraceptive methods [and] sterilization procedures” and related “patient education and counseling for women with reproductive capacity.” Institute of Medicine, Clinical Preventive Services for Women: Closing the Gaps, at 102-10 and Recommendation 5.5 (July 19, 2011).

59. FDA-approved contraceptive methods include birth-control pills; prescription contraceptive devices such as IUDs; Plan B (also known as the “morning-after pill”) and its chemical cognates; ulipristal (also known as “ella” or the “week-after pill”); and other drugs, devices, and procedures.

60. Some of these drugs and devices—including “emergency contraceptives” such as Plan B and ella and certain IUDs—are known abortifacients, in that they can cause the death of an embryo by preventing it from implanting in the wall of the uterus.

61. Indeed, the FDA's own Birth Control Guide states that Plan B and its cognates, ella, and IUDs can work by “preventing attachment (implantation) to the womb (uterus).” FDA, Office of Women's Health, Birth Control Guide at 16-18, available as Addendum to Brief of Appellants at 50, Hobby Lobby Stores Inc. v. Sebelius, No. 12-6294, ECF Doc. No. 010189999834 (10th Cir. filed Feb. 11, 2013).

62. The manufacturers of some of the drugs, methods, and devices in the category of “FDA-approved contraceptive methods” indicate that they can function to cause the demise of an early embryo.

63. The requirement for related “education and counseling” accompanying abortifacients, sterilization and contraception necessarily covers education and counseling given in favor of such items, even though it might also include other education and counseling. Moreover, it is inherent in a medical provider’s decision to prescribe one of these items that she is taking the position that use of the item is in the patient’s best interests, and therefore her education and counseling related to the item will be in favor of its proper usage.

64. On August 1, 2011, a mere 13 days after IOM published its recommendations, HRSA issued guidelines adopting them in full. See <http://www.hrsa.gov/womensguidelines>.

65. Insurance plans starting after August 1, 2012 were subject to the Mandate.

66. Any non-exempt employer providing a health insurance plan that omits any abortifacients, contraception, sterilization, or education and counseling for the same, is subject (because of the Mandate) to heavy fines approximating $100 per employee per day. Such employers are also vulnerable to lawsuits by the Secretary of Labor and by plan participants.

67. A large employer entity cannot freely avoid the Mandate by simply refusing to provide health insurance to its employees, because the ACA imposes monetary penalties on entities that would so refuse.

68. The annual penalty for failing to provide health insurance coverage is $2000 times the number of the employer’s employees, minus 30.

The Religious Employer Exemption

69. On the very same day HRSA rubber-stamped the IOM's recommendations, HHS promulgated an additional interim final rule regarding the preventive services mandate. 76 Fed. Reg. 46621 (published Aug. 3, 2011).

70. This Second Interim Final Rule granted HRSA "discretion to exempt certain religious employers from the Guidelines where contraceptive services are concerned." 76 Fed. Reg. 46621, 46623 (emphasis added). The phrase "religious employer" was restrictively defined as an entity that (1) has as its purpose the "inculcation of religious values"; (2) "primarily employs persons who share the religious tenets of the organization"; (3) "serves primarily persons who share the religious tenets of the organization"; and (4) "is a nonprofit organization as described in section 6033(a)(1) and section 6033(a)(3)(A)(i) or (iii) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended." 76 Fed. Reg. at 46626 (emphasis added).

71. The statutory citations in the fourth prong of this test refer to "churches, their integrated auxiliaries, and conventions or associations of churches" and the "exclusively religious activities of any religious order." 26 U.S.C. § 6033(a)(3).

72. The "religious employer" exemption was thus extremely narrow, limited to churches, their integrated auxiliaries, and religious orders, but only if (1) their purpose is to inculcate faith and (2) they hire and serve primarily people of their own faith tradition.

73. HRSA exercised its discretion to grant an exemption for religious employers via a footnote on its website listing the Women's Preventive Services Guidelines. The footnote states that "guidelines concerning contraceptive methods and counseling described above do not apply to women who are participants or beneficiaries in group health plans sponsored by religious employers." See <http://www.hrsa.gov/womensguidelines>.

74. Although religious organizations like the College share the same religious beliefs and concerns as objecting churches, their integrated auxiliaries, and objecting religious orders, HHS deliberately ignored the regulation's impact on their religious liberty, stating that the exemption sought only "to provide for a religious accommodation that respects the unique relationship between a house of worship and its employees in ministerial positions." 76 Fed. Reg. 46621, 46623.

75. Therefore, the vast majority of organizations with conscientious objections to providing contraceptive or abortifacient services were excluded from the "religious employer" exemption.

76. Like the original Interim Final Rule, the Second Interim Final Rule was made effective immediately, without prior notice or an opportunity for public comment.

77. Defendants acknowledged that "while a general notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment is generally required before promulgation of regulations," they had "good cause" to conclude that public comment was "impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest" in this instance. 76 Fed. Reg. at 46624.

78. Upon information and belief, after the Second Interim Final Rule was put into effect, over 100,000 comments were submitted opposing the narrow scope of the "religious employer" exemption and protesting the contraception mandate's gross infringement on the rights of religious individuals and organizations.

79. HHS did not take into account the concerns of religious organizations in the comments submitted before the Second Interim Rule was issued. HHS was unresponsive to numerous and well-grounded assertions that the Mandate violated statutory and constitutional protections of rights of conscience.

The Temporary Enforcement Safe Harbor

80. The public outcry for a broader religious employer exemption continued for many months. On January 20, 2012, HHS issued a press release acknowledging “the important concerns some have raised about religious liberty” and stating that religious objectors would be “provided an additional year . . . to comply with the new law.” See Jan. 20, 2012 Statement by U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius, available at <http://www.hhs.gov/news/press/2012pres/01/20120120a.html>.

81. On February 10, 2012, HHS formally announced a “temporary enforcement safe harbor” for non-exempt nonprofit religious organizations that objected to covering contraceptive and abortifacient services.

82. HHS declared that it would not take any enforcement action against an eligible organization during the safe harbor period, which would extend until the first plan year beginning after August 1, 2013.

83. HHS also indicated it would develop and propose changes to the regulations in an effort to accommodate the religious liberty objections of non-exempt, nonprofit religious organizations following the expiration of the safe harbor.

84. Despite the safe harbor and HHS’s accompanying promises, on February 10, 2012, HHS announced a final rule “finalizing, without change,” the contraception and abortifacient mandate and narrow religious employer exemption. 77 Fed. Reg. 8725-01 (published Feb. 15, 2012).

The Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

85. On March 21, 2012, HHS issued an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (ANPRM), presenting “questions and ideas” to “help shape” a discussion of how to “maintain the provision of contraceptive coverage without cost sharing,” while accommodating the religious beliefs of non-exempt religious organizations. 77 Fed. Reg. 16501, 16503 (2012).

86. The ANPRM conceded that forcing religious organizations to “contract, arrange, or pay for” the objectionable contraceptive and abortifacient servicers would infringe their “religious liberty interests.” Id. (emphasis added).

87. The ANPRM proposed, in vague terms, that the “health insurance issuers” for objecting religious employers could be required to “assume the responsibility for the provision of contraceptive coverage without cost sharing.” Id.

88. For the first time, and contrary to the earlier definition of “cost sharing,” Defendants suggested in the ANPRM that insurers and third party administrators could be prohibited from passing along their costs to the objecting religious organizations via increased premiums. See id.

89. “[A]pproximately 200,000 comments” were submitted in response to the ANPRM, 78 Fed. Reg. 8456, 8459, largely restating previous comments that the government’s proposals would not resolve conscientious objections, because the objecting religious organizations, by providing a health care plan in the first instance, would still be coerced to arrange for and facilitate access to morally objectionable services.

The Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

90. On February 1, 2013, HHS issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) purportedly addressing the comments submitted in response to the ANPRM. 78 Fed. Reg. 8456 (published Feb. 6, 2013).

91. The NPRM proposed two changes to the then-existing regulations. 78 Fed. Reg. 8456, 8458-59.

92. First, it proposed revising the religious employer exemption by eliminating the requirements that religious employers have the purpose of inculcating religious values and primarily employ and serve only persons of their same faith. 78 Fed. Reg. at 8461.

93. Under the NPRM's proposal, a "religious employer" would be one "that is organized and operates as a nonprofit entity and is referred to in section 6033(a)(3)(A)(i) or (iii) of the [Internal Revenue] Code." 78 Fed. Reg. at 8461.

94. HHS emphasized, however, that this proposal "would not expand the universe of employer plans that would qualify for the exemption beyond that which was intended in the 2012 final rules." 78 Fed. Reg. 8456, 8461.

95. In other words, religious organizations like the College that are not churches, integrated auxiliaries, or religious orders would continue to be denied the protection of the exemption.

96. Second, the NPRM followed up on HHS's earlier-stated intention to "accommodate" non-exempt, nonprofit religious organizations by making them "designate" their insurers and third party administrators to provide plan participants and beneficiaries with free access to contraceptive and abortifacient drugs and services.

97. The proposed "accommodation" did not resolve the concerns of religious organizations like the College because it continued to force them to deliberately provide health insurance that would trigger access to abortion-inducing drugs and related education and counseling.

98. "[O]ver 400,000 comments" were submitted in response to the NPRM, 78 Fed. Reg. 39870, 39871, with religious organizations again overwhelmingly decrying the proposed "accommodation" as a gross violation of their religious liberty because it would conscript their health care plans as the main cog in the government's scheme for expanding access to contraceptive and abortifacient services.

99. The College submitted comments on the NPRM, stating essentially the same objections set forth in this complaint.

100. On April 8, 2013, the very day that the notice-and-comment period ended, Defendant Secretary Sebelius answered questions about the contraceptive and abortifacient services requirement in a presentation at Harvard University.

101. In her remarks, Secretary Sebelius stated:

We have just completed the open comment period for the so-called accommodation, and by August 1st of this year, every employer will be covered by the law with one exception. Churches and church dioceses as employers are exempted from this benefit. But Catholic hospitals, Catholic universities, other religious entities will be providing coverage to their employees starting August 1st. . . . [A]s of August 1st, 2013, every employee who doesn't work directly for a church or a diocese will be included in the benefit package.

See The Forum at Harvard School of Public Health, A Conversation with Kathleen Sebelius, U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services, Apr. 8, 2013, available at <http://theforum.sph.harvard.edu/events/conversation-kathleen-sebelius> (Episode 9 at 2:25) (emphasis added).

102. Given the timing of these remarks, it is clear that Defendants gave no consideration to the comments submitted in response to the NPRM's proposed "accommodation."

103. Moreover, Secretary Sebelius' remarks belie the utterly unpersuasive assertion that objecting employers are not "providing coverage for" morally objectionable items in the health insurance plans they provide employees.

The Final Mandate

104. On June 28, 2013, Defendants issued a final rule (the “Final Mandate”), which ignores the objections repeatedly raised by religious organizations and others and continues to co-opt objecting employers into the government’s scheme of expanding free access to contraceptive and abortifacient services. 78 Fed. Reg. 39870 (2013). Defendants declared that the Final Mandate would be effective August 1, 2013, only one month after it was issued.

105. Under the Final Mandate, the discretionary “religious employer” exemption, which is still implemented via footnote on the HRSA website, see <http://www.hrsa.gov/womensguidelines>, remains limited to churches, integrated auxiliaries, and religious orders “organized and operate[d]” as nonprofit entities and “referred to in section 6033(a)(3)(A)(i) or (iii) of the [Internal Revenue] Code.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39874.

106. Defendants attempt to justify the extraordinarily narrow religious exemption as follows: “The Departments believe that the simplified and clarified definition of religious employer continues to respect the religious interests of houses of worship and their integrated auxiliaries in a way that does not undermine the governmental interests furthered by the contraceptive coverage requirement. Houses of worship and their integrated auxiliaries that object to contraceptive coverage on religious grounds are more likely than other employers to employ people of the same faith who share the same objection, and who would therefore be less likely than other people to use contraceptive services even if such services were covered under their plan.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39874.

107. All other organizations, including the College, are denied the exemption’s protection.

108. The College does not fall within the scope of this narrow religious exemption. It is not a church, the integrated auxiliary of a church, or a convention or association of churches, nor does it perform the exclusively religious activities of a religious order.

109. The Final Mandate creates a separate “accommodation” for certain non-exempt religious organizations. 78 Fed. Reg. at 39874.

110. An organization is eligible for the accommodation if it (1) “[o]pposes providing coverage for some or all of the contraceptive services required”; (2) “is organized and operates as a nonprofit entity”; (3) “holds itself out as a religious organization”; and (4) “self-certifies that it satisfies the first three criteria.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39874.

111. The College is eligible for the so-called accommodation.

112. The self-certification must be executed “prior to the beginning of the first plan year to which an accommodation is to apply.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39875.

113. The Final Rule also extends the current Temporary Enforcement Safe Harbor through the end of 2013, only six months after the issuance of the Final Rule. 78 Fed. Reg. at 39889.

114. Thus, an eligible organization would need to execute the self-certification prior to its first plan year that begins on or after January 1, 2014, and deliver it to the organization’s insurer.

115. If it elects to invoke the accommodation with respect to its employee plan, the College would be required to execute the self-certification and deliver it to its plan’s issuer before January 1, 2014.

116. By delivering its self-certification to its insurer, LC would trigger the insurer’s obligation to make “separate payments for contraceptive services directly for plan participants and beneficiaries.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39875-76. These payments constitute coverage of the items to which LC objects. See, e.g., id. at 39872 (“the regulations provide women with access to contraceptive coverage”), and receive treatment as coverage under consumer protection requirements of the Public Health Service Act and ERISA. Id. at 39876. This coverage will not be contained in any insurance policy separate from the College’s plan. See id.

117. By issuing the self-certification, the College would be identifying its participating employees to its insurer for the distinct purpose of enabling the government’s scheme to facilitate free access to abortifacient services.

118. The insurer’s obligation to make direct payments for abortifacient services would continue only “for so long as the participant or beneficiary remains enrolled in the plan.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39876.

119. Therefore, the College would have to coordinate with its insurer whenever it added or removed employees and beneficiaries from its healthcare plan and, as a direct and unavoidable result, from the abortifacient services payment scheme.

120. The College’s insurer is required to notify plan participants and beneficiaries of the abortifacient payment benefit “contemporaneous with (to the extent possible) but separate from any application materials distributed in connection with enrollment” in a group health plan. 78 Fed. Reg. at 39876.

121. This would also require the College to coordinate the notices with its insurer.

122. The College’s insurer would be required to provide the abortifacient benefits “in a manner consistent” with the provision of other covered services. 78 Fed. Reg. at 39876-77.

123. Thus, any payment or coverage disputes presumably would be resolved under the terms of the College’s existing plan documents.

124. Thus, even under the accommodation, the College and every other non-exempt objecting religious organization would continue to play a central role in facilitating free access to abortifacient services.

125. Defendants state that they “continue to believe, and have evidence to support” that providing payments for contraceptive services will be “cost neutral for issuers,” because “[s]everal studies have estimated that the costs of providing contraceptive coverage are balanced by cost savings from lower pregnancy-related costs and from improvements in women’s health.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39877.

126. On information and belief, the studies Defendants rely upon to support this claim are severely flawed.

127. Nevertheless, even if the payments, over time, eventually resulted in cost savings in other areas, it is undisputed that it would cost money at the outset to make the payments. See, e.g., 78 Fed. Reg. at 39877-78 (addressing ways insurers can cover up-front costs).

128. Moreover, if the cost savings that allegedly will arise make insuring an employer’s employees cheaper, the savings would have to be passed on to employers through reduced premiums, not retained by insurance issuers.

129. HHS suggests that, to maintain cost neutrality, issuers may simply ignore this fact and “set the premium for an eligible organization’s large group policy as if no payments for contraceptive services had been provided to plan participants.” 78 Fed. Reg. 39877.

130. This encourages issuers to artificially inflate the eligible organization’s premiums.

131. Under this methodology—assuming it is even legal—the eligible organization would still bear the cost of the required payments for contraceptive and abortifacient services in violation of its conscience, as if the accommodation had never been made.

132. Defendants have suggested that “[a]nother option” would be to “treat the cost of payments for contraceptive services . . . as an administrative cost that is spread across the issuer’s entire risk pool, excluding plans established or maintained by eligible organizations.” 78 Fed. Reg. at 39878.

133. There is no legal authority for forcing third parties to pay for services provided to the employees of eligible organizations under the accommodation.

134. Furthermore, under the Affordable Care Act, Defendants lack authority in the first place to coerce insurers to make separate payments for contraceptive and abortifacient services for an eligible organization’s plan participants and beneficiaries.

135. Thus, the accommodation fails to protect objecting religious organizations for lack of statutory authority.

136. For all these reasons, the accommodation does nothing to relieve non-exempt religious organizations with insured plans from being co-opted as the central cog in the government’s scheme to force the free provision of contraceptive and abortifacient services even when the organizations object to facilitating those services.

137. In sum, the accommodation is nothing more than a shell game that attempts to disguise the religious organization’s role as the central cog in the government’s scheme for expanding access to contraceptive and abortifacient services.

138. Despite the accommodation’s convoluted machinations, a religious organization’s decision to offer health insurance (which the ACA’s employer mandate requires) and its self-certification continue to serve as the sole triggers for creating access to free abortifacient services for its employees and plan beneficiaries from the same insurer it is paying for its insurance plan.

139. The College cannot participate in or facilitate the government's scheme in this manner without violating its religious convictions.

The Final Mandate and Plaintiff's Health Insurance Plans

140. The plan year for the College's next employee health plan begins on January 1, 2014. As a result, the College now faces – or will soon face – a choice. It can transgress its religious commitments by including abortifacients in its plan or by triggering its insurance issuer to provide the exact same services by providing the self-certification. Or it can transgress its religious duty to provide for the well-being of its employees and their families by dropping their employee health insurance plan altogether in order to avoid being complicit in the provision of abortifacients, thereby incurring crippling annual fines.

141. Although the government has recently announced that it will postpone implementing the annual fine of $2000 per employee (minus 30) for organizations that drop their insurance altogether, the postponement is only for one year, until 2015. This postponement does not delay the daily fines under 26 U.S.C. § 4980D or lawsuits under 29 U.S.C. § 1132.

142. The College's religious convictions forbid it from participating in any way in the government's scheme to provide free access to abortifacient services through its health care plans.

143. Dropping its insurance plans would place the College at a severe competitive disadvantage in its efforts to recruit and retain employees and students.

144. The Final Mandate forces the College to deliberately provide health insurance that would facilitate free access to emergency contraceptives, including Plan B and ella, regardless of the ability of insured persons to obtain these drugs from other sources.

145. The Final Mandate forces the College to facilitate government-dictated education and counseling concerning abortion that directly conflicts with their religious beliefs and teachings.

146. Facilitating this government-dictated speech directly undermines the express speech and messages concerning the sanctity of life that the College seeks to convey.

147. The Mandate therefore imposes a variety of substantial burdens on the religious beliefs and exercise of the Plaintiff.

The Governmental Interests Allegedly Underlying the Mandate and the Availability of Other Means of Pursuing Those Interests

148. Coercing the Plaintiff to facilitate access to morally objectionable contraceptives and abortifacients advances no compelling governmental interest.

149. The required drugs, devices, and related services to which the Plaintiff objects are already widely available at non-prohibitive costs.

150. Upon information and belief, Plan B is widely available for between $30 and $65. Upon information and belief, ella is widely available for approximately $55.

151. There are numerous alternative mechanisms through which the government could provide access to the objectionable drugs and services without conscripting objecting organizations and their insurance plans in violation of their religious beliefs.

152. For example, it could pay for the objectionable services through its existing network of family planning services funded under Title X, through direct government payments, or through tax deductions, refunds, or credits.

153. The government could simply exempt all conscientiously objecting organizations, just as it has already exempted the small subset of nonprofit religious employers that are referred to in Section 6033(a)(3)(A)(i) or (iii) of the Internal Revenue Code.

154. In one form or another, the government also provides exemptions for grandfathered plans, 42 U.S.C. § 18011; 75 Fed. Reg. 41,726, 41,731 (2010), small employers with fewer than 50 employees, 26 U.S.C. § 4980H(c)(2)(A), and certain religious denominations, 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(d)(2)(a)(i) and (ii) (individual mandate does not apply to members of “recognized religious sect or division” that conscientiously objects to acceptance of public or private insurance funds). 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(d)(2)(b)(ii) (individual mandate does not apply to members of “health care sharing ministry” that meets certain criteria).

155. These broad exemptions further demonstrate the College could be exempted from the Mandate without measurably undermining any governmental interest allegedly served by the Mandate.

156. Employers who do not make modifications to their insurance plans that deprive the plans of “grandfathered” status may continue to use those grandfathered plans indefinitely.

157. Indeed, HHS itself has predicted that a majority of large employers, employing more than 50 million Americans, will continue to use grandfathered plans until at least 2014, and that a third of medium-sized employers with between 50 and 100 employees may do likewise.

75 Fed. Reg. 34538 (June 17, 2010); see also

<http://web.archive.org/web/20130620171510/http://www.healthcare.gov/news/>

factsheets/2010/06/keeping-the-health-plan-you-have-grandfathered.html (archived version);

<https://www.cms.gov/CCIIO/Resources/Files/Factsheet-grandfather-amendment.html> (noting that amendment to regulations “will result in a small increase in the number of plans retaining their grandfathered status relative to the estimates made in the grandfathering regulation”).

158. In the ACA Congress chose to impose a variety of requirements on grandfathered health plans, but decided that extending the alleged benefits of this Mandate to tens of millions of additional women was not sufficiently important. Congress did not even think contraception was important enough to codify as part of this Mandate—as far as Congress is concerned, the broader preventive services mandate need not include contraception at all.

159. The Administration's recent postponement of the employer mandate (and its attendant penalties) also belies any claim that a compelling interest justifies coercing the Plaintiff to comply with the Final mandate, as employers may now simply decide not to provide their employee health plans without incurring fines under 26 U.S.C. § 4980H, at least for one additional year.

160. These broad exemptions also demonstrate that the Final Mandate is not a general law entitled to some measure of judicial deference.

161. The available evidence does not support Defendants' contention that making contraceptives, abortifacients, and related counseling available without cost sharing decreases the rate of unintended pregnancy or the adverse impacts on health and equality that allegedly flow from the unintended nature of a pregnancy.

162. Defendants were willing to exempt various secular organizations and postpone the employer mandate, while adamantly refusing to provide anything but the narrowest of exemptions for religious organizations.

163. The Final Mandate was promulgated by government officials, and supported by non-governmental organizations, who strongly oppose religious teachings and beliefs regarding marriage, family, and life.

164. Defendant Sebelius, for example, has long been a staunch supporter of abortion rights and a vocal critic of religious teachings and beliefs regarding abortion and contraception.

165. On October 5, 2011, six days after the comment period for the original interim final rule ended, Defendant Sebelius gave a speech at a fundraiser for NARAL Pro-Choice America. She told the assembled crowd that “we are in a war.”

166. She further criticized individuals and entities whose beliefs differed from those held by her and the others at the fundraiser, stating: “Wouldn’t you think that people who want to reduce the number of abortions would champion the cause of widely available, widely affordable contraceptive services? Not so much.”

167. On July 16, 2013, Secretary Sebelius further compared opponents of the Affordable Care Act generally to “people who opposed civil rights legislation in the 1960s,” stating that upholding the Act requires the same action as was shown “in the fight against lynching and the fight for desegregation.” See <http://www.hhs.gov/secretary/about/speeches/sp20130716.html>.

168. Consequently, on information and belief, the College alleges that the purpose of the Final Mandate, including the restrictively narrow scope of the religious employer exemption, is to discriminate against religious organizations that oppose contraception and abortion.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of Religious Freedom Restoration Act
42 U.S.C. § 2000(bb)

169. Plaintiff realleges all matters set forth in the paragraphs 1-168 and incorporates them herein.

170. The College’s sincerely held religious beliefs prohibit it from providing, paying for, making accessible, or facilitating coverage or payments for abortion, abortifacients, embryo-harming pharmaceuticals, and related education and counseling, or providing or facilitating a plan that causes access to the same through an insurance company, third-party administrator, or any other third party.

171. When the College complies with the Ten Commandments' prohibition on murder and with other sincerely held religious beliefs, it exercises religion within the meaning of the Religious Freedom Restoration Act.

172. The Mandate imposes a substantial burden on the College's religious exercise and coerces it to change or violate its religious beliefs.

173. The Mandate chills the College's religious exercise within the meaning of RFRA and pressures it to abandon their religious convictions and religious practices.

174. The Mandate exposes the College to substantial fines and/or financial burdens for its religious exercise.

175. The Mandate exposes the College to substantial competitive disadvantages because of uncertainties about its health insurance benefits caused by the Mandate.

176. The Mandate furthers no compelling governmental interest and is not narrowly tailored to any compelling governmental interest.

177. The Mandate is not the least restrictive means of furthering Defendants' stated interests.

178. The Mandate and Defendants' threatened enforcement thereof violates the College's rights protected by the Religious Freedom Restoration Act.

179. Absent injunctive and declaratory relief against application and enforcement of the Mandate, the College will suffer irreparable harm.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution

180. Plaintiff realleges all matters set forth in the paragraphs 1-168 and incorporates them herein.

181. The College's sincerely held religious beliefs prohibit it from providing, paying for, making accessible, or otherwise facilitating coverage or payments for abortion, abortifacients, embryo-harming pharmaceuticals, and related education and counseling, or providing or facilitating a plan that causes access to the same through an insurance company or third-party administrator.

182. When the College complies with the Ten Commandments' prohibition on murder and with other sincerely held religious beliefs, it exercises religion within the meaning of the Free Exercise Clause.

183. The Mandate is not neutral and is not generally applicable.

184. Defendants have created categorical exemptions and individualized exemptions to the Mandate.

185. The Mandate furthers no compelling governmental interest.

186. The Mandate is not the least restrictive means of furthering Defendants' stated interests.

187. The Mandate coerces the College to change or violate its religious beliefs.

188. The Mandate chills the College's religious exercise.

189. The Mandate exposes the College to substantial fines and/or financial burdens for its religious exercise.

190. The Mandate exposes the College to substantial competitive disadvantages, in that it makes it unclear what health benefits it can offer to its employees.

191. The Mandate substantially burdens the College's religious exercise.

192. The Mandate is not narrowly tailored to any compelling governmental interest.

193. Despite being informed in detail of the religious objections of the College and thousands of others, Defendants designed the Mandate and the religious exemption thereto to target the College and others like it, thereby making it impossible for the College and other similar religious organizations to comply with their religious beliefs without suffering crippling punishments.

194. Defendants promulgated both the Mandate and the religious exemption in order to suppress the religious exercise of the College and others.

195. By design, Defendants framed the Mandate to apply to some religious organizations but not others, resulting in discrimination among religions.

196. The Mandate violates the College's rights secured to it by the Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution

197. Plaintiff realleges all matters set forth in the paragraphs 1-168 and incorporates them herein.

198. The First Amendment's Establishment Clause, together with the Free Exercise Clause, requires the equal treatment of all religious faiths and institutions without discrimination or preference. It prohibits the unjustified differential treatment of similarly situated religious organizations.

199. The Mandate's narrow exemption for "religious employers" discriminates among religions on the basis of religious views, religious status, or incidental institutional structure or affiliation.

200. The Mandate adopts a particular theological view of what is morally acceptable complicity in the facilitation of abortifacient coverage and payments, and imposes it upon those, like the College, who conscientiously object, and who must either conform their consciences or suffer penalty.

201. The Establishment Clause, together with the Free Exercise Clause, also protects the freedom of religious organizations to decide for themselves, free from governmental interference, matters of internal governance as well as those of doctrine and practice.

202. Under the First Amendment, government may not interfere with a religious organization's internal decisions concerning its religious structure, leadership, practice, discipline, membership, or doctrine.

203. Under the First Amendment, government may not interfere with a religious organization's internal decisions if that interference would affect the faith and mission of the organization itself.

204. The College made an internal decision, dictated by its Christian faith, that the health plan it makes available to employees may not include, subsidize, provide, pay for, or in any way facilitate access to abortifacient drugs, devices, or related services.

205. The Mandate interferes with the College's internal decisions concerning its structure and mission by requiring it to subsidize, provide access to, and facilitate practices that directly conflict with their Christian beliefs.

206. The College also made internal decisions to not be structured as integrated auxiliary to a church, a denomination, or an association of churches.

207. The Mandate's narrow religious exemption unconstitutionally punishes the College for this structural choice, and pressures it to become an integrated auxiliary of a church or denomination in order to gain the protection of the exemption.

208. Because the Final Mandate interferes with the College's internal decision making in a manner that affects its faith and mission, it violates the Establishment Clause (and Free Exercise Clause) of the First Amendment.

209. Absent injunctive and declaratory relief against the Mandate, the College will suffer irreparable harm.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of the Free Speech Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution

210. Plaintiff realleges all matters set forth in the paragraphs 1-168 and incorporates them herein.

211. Defendants' requirement to provide insurance coverage for education and counseling regarding contraception causing abortion forces the College to speak in a manner contrary to its religious beliefs.

212. The College teaches that abortion violates God's law and that any participation in the unjustified taking of an innocent human life contradicts its religious beliefs and convictions.

213. The Mandate compels the College to facilitate expression and activities that the College teaches are inconsistent with its religious beliefs, expression, and practices.

214. The Mandate compels the College to facilitate access to government-dictated education and counseling related to abortion.

215. Defendants thus violate the College's rights to be free from compelled speech, a right secured to it by the Free Speech Clause of the First Amendment.

216. The Mandate's compelled speech requirement does not advance a compelling governmental interest.

217. Defendants have no narrowly tailored compelling interest to justify this compelled speech.

218. The Mandate violates the College's rights secured to it by the Free Speech Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

219. Absent declaratory and injunctive relief, the College will suffer irreparable harm.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution

220. Plaintiff realleges all matters set forth in the paragraphs 1-168 and incorporates them herein.

221. Because the Mandate sweepingly infringes upon religious exercise and speech rights that are constitutionally protected, it is unconstitutionally vague in violation of the due process rights of the College and other parties not before the Court.

222. Persons of common intelligence must necessarily guess at the meaning, scope, and application of the Mandate and its exemptions.

223. This Mandate lends itself to discriminatory enforcement by government officials in an arbitrary and capricious manner, and lawsuits by private persons, based on the government's vague standard.

224. The Mandate vests Defendants with unbridled discretion in deciding whether to allow exemptions to some, all, or no organizations that possess religious beliefs and/or that meet the government's definition of "religious employers."

225. This Mandate violates the College's due process rights under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution
Freedom of Expressive Association

226. Plaintiff realleges all matters set forth in the paragraphs 1-168 and incorporates them herein.

227. The College teaches that abortion violates God's law and that any participation in the unjustified taking of an innocent human life contradicts its religious beliefs and convictions.

228. The Mandate compels the College to facilitate expression and activities that the College teaches are inconsistent with its religious beliefs, expression, and practices.

229. Defendants' actions thus violate the College's right of expressive association protected by the Free Speech Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

SEVENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of the Administrative Procedure Act

230. Plaintiff realleges all matters set forth in the paragraphs 1-168 and incorporates them herein.

231. Because they did not give proper notice and an opportunity for public comment, Defendants did not take into account the full implications of the regulations by completing a meaningful consideration of the relevant matter presented.

232. Defendants did not consider or respond to the voluminous comments they received in opposition to the interim final rule.

233. Defendants issued its regulations on an interim final basis and only asked for comments thereafter. Yet Defendants signaled from regulatory text of its interim rules that it had no intention of considering the requests by religious organizations to provide them with exemptions, or to hold the effective date of its rules after it received and considered all the comments submitted.

234. Thus, Defendants imposed its rules without the required “open-mindedness” that agencies must have when notice-and-comment occurs. Defendants also did not have good cause to impose the rules without prior notice and comment.

235. Moreover, Defendants issued the Final Mandate with respect to the College on June 28, 2013, and declared it effective August 1, 2013, with a “safe harbor” that imposed the Final Mandate on the College’s employee plan year beginning January 1, 2014.

236. The ACA provides, and Defendants admit, that any rule issued requiring coverage of preventive services under 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-13 cannot go into effect until at least a year after the rule is finalized. Under these provisions, the Final Mandate cannot be effective on the College until its employee health insurance plan year starting after the summer of 2013, namely, the College’s plan year starting January 1, 2015.

237. Thus the Final Rule, by its effective date of August 1, 2013 and its impact on Louisiana College on January 1, 2014, violates the ACA and Defendants’ regulations against imposing within a year after they are finalized, and/or violates the APA’s requirement that agencies be open-minded to comments before finalizing their rules.

238. Therefore, Defendants have violated the notice and comment requirements of 5 U.S.C. §§ 553 (b) and (c), have taken agency action not in accordance with procedures required by law, and the College is entitled to relief pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(D).

239. In promulgating the Mandate, Defendants failed to consider the constitutional and statutory implications of the mandate on the College and similar organizations.

240. Defendants' explanation (and lack thereof) for its decision not to exempt the College and similar religious organizations from the Mandate runs counter to the evidence submitted by religious organizations during the comment period.

241. Thus, Defendants' issuance of the Mandate was arbitrary and capricious within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A) because the Mandate fails to consider the full extent of its implications and it does not take into consideration the evidence against it.

242. As set forth above, the Mandate violates RFRA and the First and Fifth Amendments.

243. The Mandate is also contrary to the provision of the ACA that states that "nothing in this title"—i.e., title I of the Act, which includes the provision dealing with "preventive services"—"shall be construed to require a qualified health plan to provide coverage of [abortion] services . . . as part of its essential health benefits for any plan year." Section 1303(b)(1)(A).

244. The Mandate is also contrary to the provisions of the Weldon Amendment of the Consolidated Security, Disaster Assistance, and Continuing Appropriations Act of 2009, Public Law 110 329, Div. A, Sec. 101, 122 Stat. 3574, 3575 (Sept. 30, 2008), which provides that "[n]one of the funds made available in this Act [making appropriations for Defendants Department of Labor and Health and Human Services] may be made available to a Federal agency or program . . . if such agency, program, or government subjects any institutional or individual health care entity to discrimination on the basis that the health care entity does not provide, pay for, provide coverage of, or refer for abortions.”

245. The Mandate also violates the provisions of the Church Amendment, 42 U.S.C. § 300a-7(d), which provides that “No individual shall be required to perform or assist in the performance of any part of a health service program or research activity funded in whole or in part under a program administered by the Secretary of Health and Human Services if his performance or assistance in the performance of such part of such program or activity would be contrary to his religious beliefs or moral convictions.”

246. The Mandate is contrary to existing law and is in violation of the APA under 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A).

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff requests the following relief:

A. That this Court enter a judgment declaring the Mandate and its application to the Plaintiff and its insurance issuer or third-party administrator to be a violation of its rights protected by RFRA, the Free Exercise, Establishment, and Free Speech Clauses of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution, the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, and the Administrative Procedure Act;

B. That this Court enter a permanent injunction prohibiting Defendants from continuing to apply the Mandate to the Plaintiff and its insurance issuer or third-party administrators or in a way that violates the legally protected rights of any person, and prohibiting Defendants from continuing to illegally discriminate against Plaintiff by requiring it to provide health insurance coverage or access to separate payments for contraceptives, abortifacients, and related counseling to the beneficiaries of its health insurance plan;

C. That this Court award the Plaintiff court costs and reasonable attorney's fees, as provided by the Equal Access to Justice Act and RFRA (as provided in 42 U.S.C. § 1988); and

D. That this Court grant such other and further relief as to which the Plaintiff may be entitled.

Respectfully submitted this 19th day of September, 2013.
