House Committee on Science, Space and Technology
U.S. House of Representatives

Dear Chairman Broun:

Thank you for your March 8, 2011, invitation to testify at the House Committee on Science, Space and Technology, Subcommittee on Investigations and Oversight's hearing titled "Behavioral Science and Security: Evaluating TSA's SPOT Program" on Wednesday, April 6, 2011, at 10:00 a.m.

As you know, the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) Screening Passengers by Observation Technique (SPOT) program is an operational layer of security currently deployed in airports across the United States. The program utilizes behavior observation and analysis techniques to identify individuals exhibiting behaviors that indicate they may be a threat to aviation and/or transportation security. SPOT is active and presently serves as another obstacle terrorists would need to overcome to defeat our transportation security system. As an active and operational program, SPOT is not aimed at discovering solutions or demonstrating the application of theories in development – nor is SPOT a research and development program/demonstration project as those terms are commonly understood.

Given the Subcommittee's interest in "scientific research, development, and demonstration, and projects," Larry Willis, Project Manager for the Hostile Intent Detection--Validation Project at DHS' Science and Technology Directorate (S&T) will represent DHS at the aforementioned hearing. Mr. Willis will provide the Subcommittee with the best available information to fully address questions concerning behavioral science.

Thank you for your interest in, and support of, TSA's mission. If we may be of further assistance, please call the Office of Legislative Affairs at (571) 227-2717.

Sincerely yours,
