

25,000

ways to redeem the soul of America

“We will press forward with speed and urgency, for we have much to do in this winter of peril and possibility. Much to repair, much to restore, much to heal, much to build, and much to gain.”

— President Biden, Inaugural Address

Mass incarceration is a moral failure and racial justice crisis. President Biden has pledged to end this crisis by cutting America’s prison rates — which are the highest in the world.

To begin to fulfill that promise, President Biden must use his clemency authority to help tens of thousands of people in federal prison who could safely be released immediately — the elderly, the sick, those swept up in the war on drugs, and people locked up because of racist policies of the past that have since changed.

President Biden can begin to heal our nation by bringing home 25,000 people through the power of clemency. The time to act is now.
