LAST NAME, FIRST NAME, MIDDLE NAME 6. SSN 7. GRADE/STATUS COLO-6 URGANIZATION OR ADDRESS HHD, 205th Military Intelligence Brigade, APO AE 09096 WANT TO MAKE THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT UNDER OATH I was interviewed by Major General Taguba, an AR 15-6 Investigating Officer from CFLCC, on 9 February 2004 concerning detainee operations at CITF-7 and allegations of detainee abuse at Forward Operating Base (FOB) Abu Ghraib. The purpose of this statement is to provide a written record of that conversation by highlighting and amplifying key areas of discussion including command and control, the nature of detainer operations, and the relationship between intelligence and military police at the FOB. As a caveat, the instances of detainee abuse under investigation occurred before I assumed command of the FOB. This statement must be understood from that perspective. Command and Control at the FOB was a complex interroingling of four distinct essential tasks under the command of two separate brigades, the 205th Military Intelligence Brigade and the 800th Military Police Brigade. These essential tasks included detention operations and monitoring, the conduct of operational and strategic interrogations of key coalition detainees, providing assistance to the Iraq Bureau of Prisons in establishing and running a maximum security prison, and enhancing force protection for the approximately 1000 service members and civilians assigned to Abu Ghraib. Detailed information about the forward operating base and its tenant units is provided in the attached briefing (enclosure I). In light of mortar attacks where both soldiers and detainees were killed, the FOB had tactical control (TACON) of forces limited to two specified tasks: force protection and detained security (enclosure 2). The 320th Military Police (MP) Battalion (Bn) was charged with executing detention operations at the FOB. This included assignment of detainees to interament camps, the establishment of standards for interamen: facilities, the training and regulation of guards, transportation of detainees throughout the theater, and the establishment of policy and procedure relative to resettlement operations. Likewise, they had the responsibility for reporting of detaineds through the National Detained Reporting System (NDRS) and the forward of Serious Incident Reports (SIR) concerning detainees. The CJTF-7 Staff Judge Advocate Magistrate's Cell was charged with developing systems to review the status of detainees, ensure they were given appropriate hearings. Article 78 appeals, and status reviews. The CITF-7 SIA had the lead in facilitating visits by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). The Joint Interrogation and Debriefing Center (JIDC) through the 205th MI Bde, was charged with executing interrogations at the FOB. The Commander, CITF-7 set forth the operating parameters of the JIDC (enclosure 3). Prioritization of interrogations was determined by the Interrogation Tirrgeting Board and sent directly to the JIDC by 205th MI Bde. In a very real sense, everyone working at Abu Ghraib is involved in "detainee operations," Abu Ghraib, also known by MPs as the Baghdad Central Correctional Facility (BCCF), currently holds over 6500 detainees. Over 5500 of these are in direct U.S. custody. Just over 1500 of these are of intelligence interest to the coalition. The FOB exists to house these detainees and facilitate interrogations. There are three basic components of "detainee operations" that include detention, interrogation, and release. Staff supervision of these functions is provided by the Provost Marshal, the C2 and the Staff Judge Advocate respectively. Unfortunately, this split responsibility for detained operations increased the pressure at lower levels and blurred tines of responsibility. Although command of the FOB provided me knowledge of all aspects and limited input, as in discussion on command and control, policy and task execution was conducted along functional lines through functional commands. As a result almost all of my experience in detainee operations comes from the interrogation perspective. The details of this perspective are provided below. Policies and procedures established by the JIDC relative to detained operations were enacted as the result of a visit by MG Geoffrey Miller, the commander of Joint Task Force Guantanamo Bay. During his visit General Miller focused on four key areas: intelligence integration, synchronization and fusion; analysis; interrogation; and detention operations. During his visit he rendered a written report, which is provided in this statement (enclosure 4). I have also provided his in-brief (enclosure 5), his out-brief (enclosure 6) and a draft update for the Secretary of Defense (enclosure 7). The key findings of his visit were that the 10 EXHIBIT 11 NITIALS OF PERSON MAKING STATEMENT PAGE 1 OF PAGES ADDITIONAL PAGES MUST CONTAIN THE HEADING "STATEMENT OF TAKEN AT ____ DATED ___. 9. STATEMENT (Continued) interrogations and analysts, develop a set of rules and limitations to guide interrogations, and provide dedicated MPs to support interrogations. As a result of his visit the task force formed a JIDC. The requirements for manning were laid out in a request forces (RFF) and a joint manning document (JMD). All recommendations were implemented with the exception of dedicated support.
The basic rules for interrogation operations are contained in Army Regulation 34-52, Interrogation Operations. The standards the conduct of interrogations are outlined in CITF7-CG Memorandum dated 5 October 2003, Subject: CITF-7 Interrogation a Counter-Resistance Policy (refer to enclosure 3) that were staffed with United States Central Command. These rules provide Left and right limits for interrogators.
Despite the articulation of clear rules, there were two violations of these standards that were brought to my attention prior to me assumption of command of the FOB and the incident that precipitated this investigation. The first of these was reported to me the MPs in early October. The incident involved two female detainees and three male interrogators. The three soldiers accuse of detainee abuse were removed from their interrogation positions and I asked CID to investigate because of the potential explosive dature of the incident. The investigation was unable to show beyond a reasonable doubt that detainee abuse occurred However, it did show that these interrogators failed to follow established procedures for interrogation, constituing derelicitors dury. Each of the three soldiers involved was given punishment under Article 15 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (enclosure 8). Punishment was imposed by me. The second instance involved a female interrogator. It was reported to me by the then JIDC Deputy Director.  It cannot recall the specifics of this incident but the interrogator was remove from her position as an interrogator and remanded to the control of additional training. Long after the fact, I was made awar of some additional allegations of abuse in an ICRC report (enclosure 9). These allegations track closely with some of the
After the first allegations of abuse, the leadership at the HDC decided to implement a more aggressive policy of ensuring that their personnel were aware of all the limitations surrounding interrogation operations. All soldiers who conduct interrogations required to sign a memorandum that they understand the rules and agree to abide by them. A blank copy of the agreement is provided (enclosure 10). Additionally, prior to starting work at the interrogation facility each person assigned undergoes training of familiarize them with the facility and operations at Abu Ghraib. This training is conducted by the section leader. A copy of the training slides is provided as well (enclosure 11). Finally, to have a reminder of the interrogation rules of engagement (IRO is well as other important information the HDC created a wall with a blow up of the IROE and applicable memorandums signed by LTG Sanchez. Every person entering the HDC passes by these items as they enter and leave the HDC facility. Pictures of twelfare personded (enclosure 12).
The complex and sometimes confusing command and control inherent to detained operations makes the inter-relationships among rganizations extremely important and contentious. Despite a genuine commitment on the part of seniors at brigade-level to mak ite relationship work, there were several areas of friction between 320th MP Bn and the JIDC. There were significant ifferences in standards between the two units in major areas, such as allowing local nationals to live in the billets, uniform tandards, and the saluting policy.
reconclusion, in response to a request of the investigating officer, I would make two recommendations as a result of my experience and the incidents that occurred. First, ensure that MPs supporting the interrogation mission are attached to the JIDC of they can be better sensitized to the rules of interrogations and provide additional value added to the interrogation process econd, if the desire of the task force is to put detained operations under the purview of one commander at Abu Ghraib, that commander must have training in detention operations, interrogation operations, and detained release procedures. The commanderationship between the FOB commander and subordinate units should be OPCON, the officer should not have additional formand responsibilities and the level of responsibility probably necessitates a General Officer. Intil the middle of November when I went to Abu Ghraib on a permanent basis, I saw is my guy on the ground and I though what he was supposed to do as well. After I became engaged in day to day operations of Commander of the 165th MI Bn, came down to assist in the JIDC and did take on more of a lizison role. I did not force protection and security, rate him because he belonged to CJTF-7 and I assumed he was being rated by the C2 chain. This was a similar arrangement to that which was described earlier in this would attend the daily meetings statement for LTC-level commanders. A with the MPs and the other tenant units. I was under the impression that he was satisfied with the way the MPs were running things on Tier 1A and in generally supporting the interrogation mission. There were other things like relations with MPs in the LSA and post security where there were concerns. However, I was led to believe that he had most of these issues under control.

also identified equipment shortfalls with the TIDC organization. The Brigade staff worked to fill these-needs but as in trying to stand-up any operation without an already established MTOE, there were shortfalls.

Jerovided information concerning soldiers showing up without their personal equipment. I believe that they took corrective action on the ground and the Brigade followed up with the Battalions of these soldiers. I do not recall discussing with me any issues for the several discussions with the DCO.

I was not aware that the shad told to stay out of operations: in fact I thought the exact opposite to be the case.

Would be in a better position to discuss answer your questions on this issue.

Ultimately, the JIDC was to be filled primarily from a Joint Manning Document (JMD) based on the RFF that was developed as a result of the visit. The work of writing and filling the JMD was being done by from the Brigade and filling the Brigade and filling this document. Although the JIDC was technically a joint operation, most of the JMD remained unfilled throughout my tour in Iraq. Specific exceptions included some Air Force medical personnel and some Navy personnel, but these arrived much later. The JIDC was essentially an Army run operation with soldiers and civilians. The decision to use civilians was made because the Brigade nad no more assets that it could provide to fill the slots. I was consulted concerning this decision and provided favorable feedback. The Brigade S3 and DCO worked with the CJTF-7 headquarters in developing specific requirements. I am unfamiliar with the specifics of the contract and do not recall when the first contractors arrived. However, two requirements were to have a clearance and to have experience. I received positive feedback on the contributions of the contractors from the standard other members of the JIDC. I was never given reason to doubt their competency and no issues were brought to my attention.

If the first week of November, the CG paid a visit to Abu Ghraib and he was still not happy with operations. In private discussions with the CG and MG FAST I decided to move to Abu Ghraib. My actual movement to Abu Ghraib was sometime in the middle of November. Closely following my movement MG Fast visited me and expressed concerned about the level of force protection at the facility. She indicated that because I was now the senior commander on the ground I might have to take additional responsibility for the force protection mission. The 205th MI Bde was named Forward Operating Base commander on 19 November. Although I didn't ask for the job, I did not fight it because I realized that unless the Brigade assumed this role, things would never get better. The 19 NOV FRAGO designating the Brigade with FOB command responsibility gave TACON of the 320th MP Bn for force protection and security of detainees as well. The FRAGO did not delineate any responsibilities. My understanding of this FRAGO was to protect all personnel from external threats. To me this meant that the MPs would continue to run confinement and security operations in the prison camps and facilities, while the JIDC would continue to perform interrogations. I brought the 165th MI Bn to oversee base security operations, assist with the implementation of base security policy, and provide forces to enhance perimeter security and conduct reconnaissance and surveillance outside the walls of Abu Ghraib. After the 19 NOV FRAGO my discussions with I Commander of the 320th MP Bn were positive. He expressed the opinion that his unit would be able to focus their efforts on confinement operations. This FRAGO did nothing to alter the mission of the MPs to maintain control over all of the detention facilities located at Abu Ghraib, even those where internees of intelligence value were housed. At some point, near the end of November the MPs decided to stop escorting detainees between the CAMP VIGILANT. CAMP GANCI and the interrogation facility. Military Intelligence took over this Siwere to ensure that a group of intelligence soldiers were trained on escorting duties and to my knowledge this was done to standard. As a result of the 19 NOV FRAGO I became more involved with base operations at Abu Ghraib. As always, I relied on battalion commanders and the Brigade staff to assist in daily operations of the Brigade.

Is discussed earlier in this statement, the JIDC created and posted IROE on their bulletin board. The IROE identified presence of working dogs and sleep management as requiring CG approval. However, the 12 October Interrogation and Counter-Resistance Policy General Safeguards (enclosure 2) allowed that dogs present at interrogations were to be muzzled and under the control of a handler. Likewise the Brigade Staff Judge. Advocate opined that sleep management could be permitted at the JIDC as long as hour period" based on conversations with personnel from Guantanamo Bay. Any sleep of less than 4 hours in a 24 hour period would have required signature. We did submit requests concerning interrogations to the following requests for segregation of detainees in excess of 30-days, but I cannot recall the mostly requests for segregation of detainees in excess of 30-days, but I cannot recall the total number or specifically what they were. The requests were kept on file at Abu Ghraib until January when they were maintained on softcopy.

Would know where they were kept. As for sleep management, the interrogators had to write down their plan and then give it to the MPs who would maintain and implement it. Additionally, these plans were to be monitored by our resident doctor. I do not know what the MPs did to implement the plan. I do not know of any training that was provided to the MPs on what MI could do with detainees or if MI trained on what MPs could do with detainees. 20/20 Hindsight, it should have been done.

and that they not have to go through could tell you the normal inprocessing procedures. about my concerns over this arrangement and more. I went to speak to asked if we were going to continue this. He said yes to facilitate their request. They would drop off detainees without notifying us. I do not remember any staff officer voicing any concerns about OGA concerning these practices although they may have. In established good relations with this fact I was under the impression that organization and that the problem had been reduced to a manageable level. With regards to the specifics of a dead detainer I can relate the following: AN OGA rep and notified me that a detainee was dead; we reported this information to the C2. I Was informed by the OGA representative on the scene that the detainee died during an interrogation while an OGA interrogator was yelling at him. The detainee apparently collapsed while he was being interrogated. The body appeared to have been in a fight. told me that the detainer received the injuries during the take down in operations the I saw injuries to the night before. The operation was a combination of left side of the head. It was decided that the body would be placed in a bag and iced to prevent rotting. The body was removed that evening/next day quietly making it appear as if a detainee was injured in order to prevent unnecessary panic among the other detainees. OGA investigated the incident and decided that they would comply with inprocessing advised them to do so. Likewise when TFrequirements after the 121 asked to use our facility months later I recall we required them to follow established policy as well.

have no knowledge of any MI person abusing detainees by pushing them off a truck or on the ground. I would think that if a ISG in my Brigade knew about the use of excessive force, he would let me know. No one ever told me about such an incident:

The International Community Red Cross (ICRC) visited Abu Ghraib twice. Once before I was FOB commander and once after. They did not meet with me the first time. I did receive a copy of the results and noted there were allegations of maltreatment and detainees wearing women underwear on their heads. I did not believe it. I felt some doing this. I recall I might have relayed to the staff that this stuff couldn't have been happening. I cannot specifically recall telling the staff this stuff better not be happening, but I might have said words to the effect. When the ICRC came by the second time, the FOB invoked GCIV/Article 143, for eight detainees to prevent them from talking to the ICRC while undergoing an active interrogation. Informed me that I had the authority to do this. Before I became FOB commander, I was told there was a shortage of jumpsuits, but I was never told about the women's underwear issue. I occasionally walked down Tier 1 A and 1B and I never saw any naked detainees

Two soldiers were reduced in rank and fined and another was fined and taken away from interrogation operations. I was told that a TITAN Linguist was also involved, but that he did not participate.

I was reported to me that three male soldiers had gore in to interrogate a female detainee and had some sexual motives and had touched the females. I told we needed to suspend the individuals from interrogation operations and remove them from contact with detainees. A CID investigation was initiated but there were not enough evidence to prosecute them for detainee abuse or sexual misconduct so I gave them Article 15s for dereliction of duty. Two soldiers were reduced in rank and fined and another was fined and taken away from interrogation operations. I was told that a TITAN Linguist was also involved, but that he did not participate. Thought there were some initial problems with the linguists statement and went back to clarify the situation. When he came back told me we had a true statement and I took the recommendations from my staff as to the disposition of the three soldier interrogators. We did not fire the linguist and I took the recommendations from my staff as to the disposition of the three soldier interrogators. We did not fire the linguist and I took the recommendations from the linguist and I took the recommendations from the linguist and I took the recommendations from my staff as to the disposition of the three soldier interrogators.

I saw that at the operations level the abit out for request for information. There were about 90 priorities at know what to focus on. I told MG FAST that they were confusion number of priorities to help them focus because they did not know they were prioritizing the requirements. When I first visited Abu Ghraib, I noticed there was a lack of equiver using for interrogation was not working and we recomment place the GTMO system they needed computer systems which the link with the fusion cell for analytical support was just not there, they needed to develop interrogation plans and then get it approcheck on their soldiers. The analyst need to get help get an intercentrol, they need to provide an assessment based on what inforted telling an interrogator where they need to go next with the interrand much of their work had to be done by hand. MEMORANDUM FOR RECORD: SUBJECT: Procedure 15 Interview of

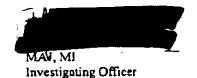

On 09 June 2004, The following is based on what answered to a serious of questions he was asked. He is currently reviewing his statement.

OSJA, HQCO, MCCDC, QUANTICO, VA 22134

I arrived in Kuwait on the 3rd week of July 03 and immediately deployed into Baghdad, Iraq. My duty the first three weeks was operations lawyer for LTG SANCHEZ. I After three weeks, the Navy lawyer redeployed to worked for Germany and I became the Chief of Operations Law over the Task Force. Whe arrived in January 04, he replaced me and I went back to work with on some issues we had worked on before. The Interrogation Rules of Engagement is a misnomer it is not the correct use of policy when dealing with detainees. The Policies were "Interrogation and Counter Resistant Policy." I first began dealing with interrogation operations when MG MILLER visited Iraq. It was understood that they had a great deal of experience from GTMO and had came to help us gain operational the GTMO team and I met to discuss policies for use level intelligence. in Iraq. This was a new game and we were discussing the role of lawyers to make policy. We took the Field Manuals, policies and government regulations to find out how they ran operations. The reason we began writing a CJTF-7 Policy was because there were too many units using their own policies. We felt it was a good idea to have a CJTF-7 Policy to regulate interrogation operations. When MG MILLER came, he brought his policies. We gathered all documentation available on Interrogation and Counter Resistant. These are some of the documents I remember we used: FM 34-52, GTMO policies, CJTF-180 policies, Fourth Geneva Convention, International Laws, DOD Directives, FM 27-10, EPW Regulations. I do not remember seeing the power point slide reated. It looks to me that she was doing her best to put some policy together for her tolks and being proactive. We saw the policies GTMO had and we felt that we needed to focus on the Fourth Geneva Convention because unlike GTMO, the fourth Geneva Convention did apply in Iraq. We saw memos from other theaters and focused on; what had been done right; what we could task; and what didn't fit in our theater. Our situation was different and had to be desperate and distinct to what we were trying to do. We went through a drafting process where we would look at other policies and studied them to try to find and interpret the law. We also wanted to give the intelligence community the ability to do their job while following the Geneva Convention. We initially sent a draft to CENTCOM in September (DATE). The draft was thematically similar to the policy done by GTMO. CENTCOM came back and had some concerns with the draft policy we had sent. I agreed with their criticism; Stress management and Sleep management were some of the concern. CENTCOM felt they did not comply with the Geneva Convention and could be subjective. The first problem was the ability to try to place safeguards on each technique wasn't working. (Certain techniques had time limits and we believed it was up to the unit to request implementation of timing which would be different with each detainee). After we received the Draft back from CENTCOM, we decided we would stick to FM 34-52 and instead of writing down techniques, we focused on safeguards. We wanted to focus on the process. We wanted interrogation plans to be comprehensive and approved at the units level by the leadership. We wanted leadership involved in the interrogation plan process. We did not want to come up with a list of techniques written by lawyers which would than become the only legal techniques which did more harm than good. We wanted to allow the interrogator to use the Manual to use the techniques that best suited his detainee. We added segregation on the policy for the effectiveness of interrogations. We believed that a detainee should not go back to his buddies to collaborate and exchange information. If a group came in, we needed to segregate them from one another. The approval had to be approved by C2, SJA and finally the CG. I do not think that segregation is a Geneva Convention term but it is an important concept that is discussed in FM 34-52. We felt it was important for the interrogator to control the movement of a detainee. Once the detainee was returned to his fellow detainees, the interrogator lost control of the environment. We limited this to 30 days and anything that went beyond that had to get approved by higher. Why 30 days? There is no book on time duration of segregation and we thought that anything less than 30 days was humane but anything passed 60 days was inhumane. A person trying to solve a problem probably needs more than one week but less than two months to fix a problem. So we decided one month was probably safe an anything beyond that required CG approval. We felt this was a reasonable time for an interrogation to last until it required the CG's involvement and approval. Another word we changed was EPW to security detainees. We made the change because we realized that the number of EPWs were very small and there was already a procedure for EPWs (FM 34-52). We were now had more security and civilian detainees. Our problem was that there was no guidance out there on how to deal with security and civilian detainees. We used the Fourth Geneva Convention because it covered civilian detainees. The Interrogation and Counter Resistant Policy was being staffed to the units and staff. MG FAST reviewed it for the intelligence community and (WHO REVIEWED IT FOR THE UNITS AND OTHER STAFF ELEMENTS?). The policy is still not perfect but I believe it is pretty good. A lot of hard work by a lot of people went into writing the policy letters. The final policy approved by CENTCOM was the 12 October 03 Policy. There was a reduction in the techniques listed in the previous policy. We felt that our attorneys were not expert in telling the interrogators how to do Interrogations. The only way we felt we could manage interrogations was to enforce the Interrogation Plans and have the intelligence community conduct oversight of them. We felt that those that would come to us would be exceptions to policy instead of advocating to interrogators what techniques to use and time limitations. It all had to be focused on the particular detainee they were interrogating. We empowered the Intelligence community to focus on the interrogation plan. Each one would be specific based on the detainee and when they wanted to go outside of the acceptable techniques, they would submit the request. We understood the combination of techniques would be used and the effect these techniques had on a detainee had to be monitored by the leadership reviewing the interrogation plans. One of the problems I saw coming in as an outsider, was the FRAGO system we had in place. The policies had to get down to the lowest level. We had other services and other countries and we had a problem with distributing the FRAGOs to everyone. The CG always discussed the responsibility of every one to treat detainees with dignity and respect. He would send this out on the FRAGOs that went out. He would get very frustrated because he felt some were not following his request. (I AM NOT SURE IF I CAPTURED THIS RIGHT). The reason for classifying the documents was because we did not want to compromise what we were doing. The second draft (DATE) was never meant to be followed by anyone. It was being staffed. I do not recall the staffing method for the drafts. The normal method was Current Operations' Lawyer would place the document in a folder. The staff would then go to the folder and review it and make comments. The other way was to place a cover sheet on it and send it out hard copy. I might have seen two policies that were signed and I do not know why the CG signed it because it was going to CENTCOM for approval. I was not in on any meeting with LTG SANCHEZ. The only thing I remember is that Ptold me that the policy only gets implemented if it is approved by CENTCOM. I do not know how the policies went out before they were approved by CENTCOM. I would assume it was leaked out. I was not involved with the ICRC visit was). I did see one ICRC report or writing the response to their findings in January and I sent it to III Corps for their response. The ICRC report was based on a lot of anecdote and it was hard to understand what was true and what wasn't. I never heard of LTG Sanchez giving any blanket use of techniques not even for the night of the shooting. I do remember him being very upset that we had soldiers going in after a detainee who had a gun and not having a preplanning to respond with the appropriate amount of firepower. LTG SANCHEZ expected the leadership to get involve at every level. I do not recall any approval authority delegated to COL PAPPAS. It is up to the commanders to ensure humane treatment is followed and to oversee the limits of what techniques are being done.

OSJA, HQCO, MCCDC, QUANTICO, VA 22134

I arrived in Kuwait on the 3rd week of July 03 and immediately deployed into Baghdad, Iraq. My duties the first three weeks were to serve as an operational lawyer on the CJTF-USA, CJTF-7 SJA. After three weeks, 7 Staff. I worked for USN) redeployed to Germany the Chief of Operational Law and I assumed the duties of Chief of Operational Law for CJTF-7. I remained in this USA, of III Corps assumed the duties in January 04. I then moved from Camp Victory to the CPA to work with 7 (fwd) on some issues we had worked on previously for the purpose of continuity, and to ease the transition to III Corps. I first began dealing with detention and interrogation operations in the very beginning of my tour when we drafted FRAGOs giving CJTF-level guidance to all units regarding detainees. It was the opinion of our office that all detainees must be treated humanely in accordance with international law at all times and specifically, the Geneva Conventions. We addressed all detention and interrogation issues with this founding principle. LTG SANCHEZ, USA, Commanding General, CJTF-7 repeatedly impressed upon his staff and subordinate commands both verbally and in writing, his desire for treatment of all Iraqis with dignity and respect. worked directly with the CG in developing these written orders and I participated in their drafting. To my knowledge, the only policies approved by the CG with regard to detainees were the ones published by our office, specifically the CJTF-7 Interrogation and Counter-Resistance Policy and various "Dignity and Respect" memos, which were published by FRAGO. Though I was not present in any meeting with the CG wherein interrogation techniques were discussed, I never heard of him giving permission for use of any particular technique. Such guidance would have been contrary to CJTF-7 policy as we created it, and his commander's intent, as I understood it.

When MG MILLER, USA visited lraq from Guantanamo Bay (GTMO) we focused on preparing an interrogation policy. I believe it was generally understood that MG MILLER and his staff had a great deal of experience from GTMO and had come to help us gain hetter operational level intelligence from detainees through interrogation. I members of the GTMO team, myself, and others met to discuss the creation of a standard CJTF-7 policy for use in Iraq. MG MILLER's staff suggested that we needed a theater-level policy, and though I did not initially agree with that idea, I came to believe that the policy was necessary to regularize interrogation practices across the Iraq Theater. I initially felt that the published references (infra) and intelligence leadership would serve sufficiently to guide the process, and that lawyers could possibly bring the unintended consequence of unnecessary restrictions to the interrogations. After discussing the matter at length, however, we decided that the policy was necessary to regulate unit-level policies and ensure that policies across Iraq, including those in units coming in from Afghanistan and other places comported with our baseline need to satisfy the Geneva Conventions.

In preparing the policy drafts, we gathered all documentation we could locate on interrogation and counter-resistance, including FM 34-52, GTMO and CJTF-180 policies,

The Third and Fourth Geneva Conventions and associated commentaries, DOD Directives, FM 27-10, and other regulations relating to EPWs and civilian internees. We also considered other international law even when not binding, e.g., the Geneva Protocols. We looked at the manuals, various policies and other regulations with an eye toward gaining consistency in interrogation operations. It is important to note that while we considered the policy in use at GTMO, and used the general format of their policy for the purpose of organization of our own, we knew that we would be guided neither in content nor legal analysis by the GTMO policy. We felt that our situation was fundamentally different, and that as a force engaged in an international armed conflict, the Geneva Conventions would prevent any such guidance. Instead we attempted to evaluate all available techniques and approaches we found in the various policies and manuals, applying limits and safeguards to remain within the bounds of international law and to promote humane treatment.

After gathering information, we began the process of constructing drafts of the policy for discussion and staffing. There are various drafts in existence that contain changes to the policy as a result of our internal consultations, the staffing process and our interaction with supported commands. The many differences in the drafts, including whether to include EPWs or only Security Internees within the policy, are the result of our discussions and input from units and staff members in the staffing process. To my knowledge, these drafts were not issued to units for their use, though some units may have received electronic copies for critique during staffing. We also received some limited guidance from CENTCOM after we submitted the first signed policy to them that we intended to implement.

In initial drafts, we focused on inclusion, exclusion and limiting some individual techniques in an effort to have the policy comport with international law. In later drafts, (after review by CENTCOM SJA's office) it became evident that we should rely more heavily on FM 34-52 and focus on interrogation approaches as described in that manual while implementing necessary safeguards designed to promote humane implementation of the approaches. Given the fact that interrogation approaches described in the manual could combine techniques, and those techniques could have differing effects on different detainees based on implementation, duration, age and health of the detainee, etc, supervision and intelligence leadership involvement in the creation of individual interrogation plans became a more important focus. Comprehensive individual interrogation plans had to be supervised and approved at the unit level by intelligence leadership. In short, our aim was to allow the interrogator to use the approaches available in the manuals, tailoring the techniques that best suited the detainee under interrogation -under direct supervision of intelligence leadership --while remaining within the bounds of the law. We selected the approaches in FM 34-52 because the manual had been previously legally reviewed, and offered approaches which could be used on EPWs, the category of detainee with the highest protections under the law. Any deviation from the approaches in the policy had to be approved by the CG. By our policy, this approval would have had to be staffed through the CJTF-7 C2 and SIA prior to CG approval. We viewed segregation from fellow detainees not as a technique, but as a necessary part of any interrogation. Understanding that while necessary, segregation could be viewed as inhumane if lengthy, we installed a 30 day safeguard in the policy, with the need for CG's approval to continue segregation of any security internee past 30 days-whether consecutive or not. We felt this was a reasonable time for an interrogation under segregation to continue with supervision below the level of the CG. After 30 days, we felt that such segregation should require the CG's involvement and approval.

Questions have been raised as to the security classification of the policy. The reason for classifying the interrogation documents as SECRET was that other interrogation policies we viewed were classified SECRET, and I believed that if the information were leaked, it could severely undermine the interrogation efforts in the field. This classification was selected only for reasons of national security, and in no way hid the contents of the policy from CJTF-7 personnel who had the need to know it.

I recall two interrogation and counter-resistance policies being approved and signed by the CG. The first was rescinded about 28 days after its submission to CENTCOM and superseded by the later policy. We sent the first policy to CENTCOM for review with the intent to implement the policy upon approval. I believe it was dated 14 September 2003. Lawyers at CENTCOM expressed reservation that some of the techniques could violate the GC depending on the manner of implementation. After reviewing the CENTCOM input, we changed our focus to the approach-based model described above. Our desire was to satisfy the need for effective interrogations while remaining within the bounds of international law and promoting humane treatment of detainees. After modifying the policy, we rescinded the original and reissued our final policy dated, by my recollection, October 12 of 2003. I do not believe that the original policy was ever officially issued, but since it had been signed, we thought it should be rescinded as confusion could have resulted. As far as the staffing methods used for these documents, I do not recall which staffing method was used for each particular draft. Moreover, most of the drafts did not leave our office, as the changes were the result of internal decision-making. The normal method for staffing drafts outside of the office was that the Current Operations' Lawyer would place the document in an electronic folder for staffing to CJTF-7 staff and supported units through LNOs. The staff would then go to the folder and review it and make changes and comments. Some documents, especially sensitive ones, may have been staffed in "hard-copy"—placing a cover sheet on them and forwarding to the units for staffing.

The Interpogation Rules of Engagement (IROE) is a document that I have learned USA. This is a document that I do not recall seeing prior was prepared by to my interview with the FAY commission. I think that I would have recalled the document, because IROE is a misnomer; it is not the correct use of terminology with respect to detainees. The CJTF-7 policy does not address "engagement" of detainees during interrogation, as they are protected persons. After seeing the slide, however, I believe that it is a well-intended effort at producing a "layman's training aid" that reated for her troops to teach them what was allowable under the CJTF-7 on interrogation matters. I worked policy. I did not normally work with , USA, a lawyer from 205th MI in the drafting of the CJTF-7 policy and occasionally answered questions from the field through him on interrogation matters. In all cases, I advised him to advise the intelligence / interrogation leadership to use comprehensive interrogation plans and to formally request any deviations from policy through the chain of command and the C2 and SJA as discussed above. The only requests for deviation that I saw were requests to continue segregation past 30 days.

Though I was not involved in the legal administration of detention operations at Abu Ghraib, I remember reading one or two ICRC reports in the January 2003 timeframe. The ICRC reports included allegations of mistreatment of Iraqis both at the point of detention and in internment. It was my understanding that these were unconfirmed reports based solely on anecdotes obtained directly from interviews between the ICRC and detainees. These reports appeared quite exaggerated and hyperbolic, citing lawful uses of force as violations, including pointing weapons at persons during capture operations, segregating suspected insurgents from their family members during questioning, or using force to prevent detainee escape. I recall forwarding an ICRC report to the III Corps SJA (detention ops) for response. (AUS) a Coalition attorney working in my section, drafted or edited a separate draft response to an ICRC report on behalf of BG KARPINSKI's office. I edited that response. I was not present during any ICRC visit to Abu Ghraib. I did, however, work directly with the ICRC, coordinating access and handling all ICRC requests regarding Saddam Hussein. I do remember that authority to command forces at Abu Ghraib was shifted to COL PAPPAS in response to attacks at that facility, but I do not recall any approval authority being delegated to COL PAPPAS regarding interrogation approaches or policy. Such delegation would have been contrary to the CJTF-7 Interrogation and Counter-Resistance policy and my understanding of the CG's intent with respect to detainee treatment.

This statement is being provided to the FAY commission in response to their questioning, and for the purpose of their investigation. It is intended to replace the draft statement prepared by the commission on my behalf, which contained errors. I swear that the contents of this statement are true to the best of my knowledge and recollection.

I reported to CJTF-7, Baghdad, Iraq on 29 Jul 03. I was assigned as the C2 for CJTF-7. I was tasked by SecDef thru CENTCOM to complete an assessment of the intelligence architecture in Iraq and specifically address intelligence resources, processes and priorities. I spent the first part of the month with the newly arrived C3, visiting all the divisions and various activities, with an eye on the intelligence system. In both my interim and final assessments for SecDef, I highlighted my concerns with detainee operations as a number one problem and an area where we have the greatest challenge. At that time, interrogation operations were strung across the country, from Camp Bucca to Camp Cropper to Ashraf. It was about the time I arrived when Abu Ghraib was opened for interrogation business-bringing in detainees associated with a major CJTF-7 operation. Against that backdrop, I greatly welcomed the visit of MG Geoff Miller and the GTMO team. Although GTMO is a very different effort (no combat, no ongoing operation into which it must fit in a timely manner, a singular effort vice a coherent full spectrum HUMINT effort), I believed we could map GTMO best practices into something that would work in Iraq. There was much work to be done-from organization to facilities to reporting and management. The C2 and the MI Bde immediately began to implement the recommendations from MG Miller's GTMO report. In the C2 area specifically, this included standing up a robust C2X (which, lacking even a competent OIC, I had already identified as my most critical fill) and an analytic effort that capitalized on debriefing reports and focuses interrogations. COL Pappas also began to implement GTMO recommendations, to include an internal reorganization to establish Tiger Teams, as well as receiving GTMO teams augment his effort and provide additional expertise and mentorship. Arrangements were made for a Huachuca MTT, which come in and conducted additional interrogation training. In Sep. the CG published an interrogation policy letter which outlined proper and authorized conduct for interrogation (updated in Oct 03). All of these aforementioned initiatives were implemented from mid-Sep to the end of Nov (being in part dependent on resourcing). Meanwhile, the CG's goal was to close Camp Cropper (less the HVD facility) and consolidate all detention operation into Abu Ghraib by 1 Oct 03. When the first detainees from Camp Cropper began to arrive at Abu Ghraib, interrogation operations were conducted in tents. Up until that time, the Cdr, A Co, 519th MI Bn, Commonweather the senior officer on the site. Soon, MI personnel from the various MI units began to arrive at Abu Ghraib and operate. In terms of responsibility, the M Brigade was responsible for interrogation and the MP Brigade was responsible for detention operations. COL Tom Pappas, 205th MI Bde Commander, initially operated from his headquarters in Camp Anaconda, but found it necessary to relocate to Baghdad in order to be closer to CJTF-7 and key components of his command, such as interrogation. I am not familiar with the timing of He did personnel assignments, due to the backbone of the intelligence coming out of V Corps assets and the close working my deputy and the V Corps G2. relationship he had with the CITF-7 C1, who was also the V Corps G1. The first time I recall meeting was just after the mortar attack which killed and injured numerous MI soldiers. It was just before this incident that COL Pappas began spending vas just after the more and more time at Abu Ghraib, often overnighting. After the mortar attack, COL Pappas made a decision to move all operations and billeting into the hardened buildings to prevent injuries from future attacks (CPA had previously said these buildings were off-limits to CITF-7 use). During my visits, I was normally briefed by the state of the bound of the however was always in the wings and often discussed various operational and life support issues with me (eg. computers, snowers). From an austere, bare bones installation, interrogation operations steadily improved. Facilities were rehabilitated to allow for segregation of detainees. Interrogation booths were built. Databases were built and software improved to link detainees to interrogations and reporting. Unfortunately, there were different databases being used by MI and MP's for detainee/interrogation operations. The decision to begin using BATS was slow in being implemented (just now being fielded to satisfaction). During my visits to Abu Ghraib, I observed areas of concern-shortcomings in defensive preparations, lax conduct tamong MP's, and a general laxity in cleanliness standards. MI personnel were forced to conduct their own escort of detainees, pull guard duty-something COL Pappas raised as an issue. I voiced my concern to the DCG, MG Wodjakowski, about the need for someone to be in charge of the entire facility, as did the JAG.

Pappas as the Forward Operating Base Commander at Abu Ghraib. The MP Bn was placed under his TACON. This decision LTG Sanchez made the decision to appoint COL was published in a FRAGO.

9. STATEMENT (Continued) Despite this being around the time of the detainee abuses (as founded in the Taguba 15-6), the command leadership was not aware of this abhorrent behavior to the best of my knowledge(I simply can't speak for all others, but have no reason to believe that other staff and the MI Bde Cdr knew about it) and it therefore played no role in the timing of the COL Pappas uncovered several disciplinary problems at Abu Ghraib, and to the best of my knowledge, he immediately and thoroughly investigated and took action on each one. These included soldiers having pets and local nationals living on and running a cafe. The relationship between the MI Brigade and the MP Brigade was a frustrated one, with COL Pappas unhappy about the level of MP support. COL Pappas' rater was the DCG, MG Wojdakowski, with LTG Sanchez as Senior Rater. BG Karpinski's rater was LTG McKiernan (I thought it was MG Wodjakowski until just this week) as 800th MP Bde was only TACON to CJTF-7 and LTG Sanchez. My responsibility as the C2 was one of staff supervision for interrogation operations. The C3 was designated by LTG Sanchez as the overall staff supervisor for detention operations, with the PMO being responsible for detainee operations. It is my belief that there was a premise that most units would surrender during Phase III, resulting in there being few detainees. I just don't believe that folks envisioned ever needing a robust detainee operation on a scale not seen since WWII, either during or after hostilities. There are doctrinal and training lessons to be learned and which have been developed throughout OIF. With regard to the detainees abuse-I never saw nor was I made aware of the alleged detainee abuse, the use of dogs during interrogations by MI or MP's (if it occurred), nor was I aware of any photos until the investigation was being initiated. I do not recall if it was just before the investigation began (but after the notification to the CG) or if it was after the investigation commenced when I actually became knowledgeable do recall being absolutely sickened by the description, and later, by the pictures (I have never seen the CD). Clearly, had I been aware of this activity, I would have reported it, just as I immediately actioned a reported violation in th I served as the President of the Appeal and Release Board from its inception in August 2903. The board consisted of three voting members, the CJTF-7 Staff Judge Advocate, the Commander, 800th MP Brigade, and me.
