- Why red smoke as a warning shot? 30 MAY 06

2d BCT, 101st Airborne Division (AASLT)
Attached is the signed action for 149, death of a local national for EOF. The ADC-M wants the unit to review their EOF and retrain as needed regarding using red smoke. Red smoke is not part of the EOF procedures. Thanks. Please mark this as closed on your tracker. Also, was the green on blue, 138 for our records only? This is not a required 15-6 and I will scan it and save it. This can be marked as closed on the tracker as well. Thanks.

MEMORANDUM FOR RECORD

SUBJECT: Findings and Recommendations for Investigation #06-149 (Escalation of Force)

1. On 22 April 2006 at 0935 hours, [redacted] of A Co. 2-101 BTB, fired at a local national driving a four door sedan on [redacted] resulting in his death after the local national failed to comply with warnings to not approach. Overall, proper escalation of force was observed and no actions should be taken against the members of Strike Iron Claw.

2. Summary of the Facts.

On 22 APR 2006, Strike Iron Claw (SIC) was tasked with a RTE clearance mission of [redacted] to maintain freedom of movement in AO Talon for Coalition Forces (CF). In preparation for the mission, the platoon leader [redacted] gave a mission brief to bring forward the specific tasks before the platoon. Among the issues discussed in the mission brief was the distinct threat of VBIED’s due to a strike two days prior. Before leaving to conduct the mission, [redacted] reviewed the Rules of Engagement (ROE) for threatening vehicles as is the standard in A Co. During this review, all members of the platoon clearly understood the actions they were to take in the event of a possible VBIED attack. (Note: For clarification the actions they were to take followed the shout, show, provide warning shots, attempt to disable the vehicle, and finally shoot the driver.) Once this was complete the platoon loaded into their vehicles and began movement. [redacted] of A Co. 2-101 BTB was assigned as the turret gunner for the lead vehicle of the clearance mission for that day (RG-31, A22).

At approximately 0930, Strike Iron Claw turned onto [redacted] moving west. Within five minutes, SIC was located at grid coordinates [redacted] when a local national, white, four door sedan began to approach SIC. When the vehicle came within 120m of SIC, a Stop sign paddle was waived to inform the local nationals within the vehicle to discontinue their approach. The vehicle did not cease and a smoke grenade was launched toward the vehicle as a warning at 100m from SIC. At this point the vehicle slowed briefly, but then began to come at SIC at a faster rate of speed. It became necessary at this point for SIC to fire two 5.56 ball rounds at the vehicle in an attempt to disable the vehicle. One round was fired at the engine compartment on the drivers' side and was later found to have hit the front, drivers side tire. The second round impacted the engine block and ricocheted out of the engine compartment. When the vehicle was at 40m from SIC, it still showed no signs of stopping. In response, [redacted] following the Rules of Engagement (ROE) for the Iraq theater of operations, fired a single 5.56 round from his M4 at the driver in an attempt to disable him.
AFZB-KB-
SUBJECT: Findings and Recommendations for Investigation #06-149 (Escalation of Force)

After the shot was fired, the vehicle veered off the road and stopped. Members of SIC moved towards the vehicle to assess the situation and found the driver alive, but seriously injured. Medics were called in to provide assistance in an effort to keep the local national alive. When the medic arrived from his position in the Buffalo he found the LN with a gunshot wound to the lower part of the chin. He immediately began to position the body in an effort to treat the wound and stop the bleeding. Simultaneously, escalation of force was called in to B Co 1-502IN. Within five minutes of treating the wounded local national an emergency medical evacuation (MEDEVAC) was called into the 1-502 TOC. SIC began moving the local national towards in order to meet the medevac. At 0955, the local national was declared dead on arrival at the helipad.

Soon after the platoon recomposed themselves and, understanding that an investigation would ensue, began movement back to the site of the escalation of force. When they returned to the site, they found that the vehicle was missing. They interviewed the local nationals present and discovered that the uncle, who was the passenger in the vehicle during the shooting, had already called for a wrecker and had the vehicle towed. The platoon took pictures of the EOF site and returned to . When they returned they found the uncle there trying to get the body of the driver. They asked where the vehicle was located and the uncle replied it was taken to the drivers' residence. After some convincing, the uncle agreed to take the platoon to the residence. Maintaining situational awareness, stopped the platoon approximately 400 meters from the final destination due to the dubious layout of the road leading to the house. The platoon was able to convince four local nationals who had been traveling on the road (and happened to be related to the uncle) to retrieve the car and push it to them. They obliged and brought it to them allowing the platoon to take pictures of the vehicle. The platoon concluded the incident by returning to and taking pictures of the deceased body. Afterwards, they finished their mission and returned to Camp Striker.

3. Findings.

After carefully considering the evidence, I find that:

a. The members of Strike Iron Claw were sufficiently trained on the Rules of Engagement (ROE) for the Iraq theater of operations.

b. felt the vehicle was an immediate threat to the safety and welfare of himself and his platoon, resulting in the escalation of force.

c. gave the local national driving the vehicle more than ample time and warning to stop the vehicle.

d. The leadership took the proper precautions by briefing the platoon on the possible threat of VBIED's.

e. The members of Strike Iron Claw acted quickly and properly in an effort to save the local nationals life.

4. Recommendations.

In view of the above findings, I recommend:

a. That no actions be taken against [redacted] or his leadership.

b. That [redacted] be commended for his excellent marksmanship and perseverance in protecting members of his unit.

5. The point of contact for this memorandum is the undersigned at [redacted] and [redacted]smil.mil.
